GIVEN ORDERS WHICH START

ALLIED ARMIES READY

French and Belgian Forces Working in Close Junction to Prevent Advance of Enemy—Refugees
Tell of Fighting.

Save for the brief official announcement from Paris saying: "The retirement of Belgian troops toward Antwerp is rumored, but not confirmed," little news came today from the war front. Complete silence is maintained to the fortunes of war of the big fight understood to be in progress somewhere along a line extending through Belgium and Luxemburg. Dispatches give evidence of the presence of masses of German troops pushing their way to the front behind an imperturbable screen of cavalry whose dashes in search for information as to the whereabouts of the allied troops, have resulted in sharp clashes and heavy casualties.

The commanders of the allied forces of French, British and Belgians will not permit anything about their positions to become public, and since the official note made known the presence of a large British expeditionary force on the continent, its movements have been hidden from the outside world.

At Brussels it is said there has been no change since yesterday in the condition then reported to be excellent for the allies.

The fate of the forts at Liege is not definitely known. German dispatches describe them as in the hands of the German army since the arrival of heavy artillery, while Belgian military authorities assert that they are still intact and holding out bravely.

In Alsace-Lorraine, the French turning movement through southern Alsace appears, from French reports, to be progressing favorably for the French, and this seems to receive confirmation. A dispatch sent out by the Wolff bureau, the German official news agency, saying two batteries of guns were taken by the French who continued their march forward.

All these reports, however, refer to preliminary meetings of opposing bodies of troops leading up to the great battles which have already begun. Even leading prominent Frenchmen take occasion to point out to their countrymen that the decisive conflict is yet to come and that too much reliance must not be placed on reports of demoralization among the German troops.

It is reported that a naval encounter has occurred in the North Sea, but this is without official confirmation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Aug. 19.—The curt announcement in a telegram from Brussels dated last night, of fierce fighting between Belgian and German troops along an extended front, is generally accepted in London today as indicating the real beginning of the first great battle in the war.

German attack today again is reported made on the direct orders of Emperor William himself to his generals in the field.

The exact extent of the line of fighting has not been revealed, but presumably it stretched in a north and south line. Beyond this its definite location is virtually guess work.

Refugees Report Fighting. Refugees from Diest, Trierleont and other towns in that section of Belgium which fled as the Germans approached, are coming into Brussels in great numbers. They declare that since the inhabitants vacated Trierleont, German shells have been dropping in the town and that subsequently the Belgians broke the German advance there at the point of the bayonet.

A dispatch to the Reuters Telegraph company from Brussels says that German advance posts governing the region between Gambouix and Jodeligne are being gradually pushed back before the advance of the Belgian and French forces.

The Belgians and French are now in close junction in contact with the advance line of the German army.

Expect Immense Battle. Paris, Aug. 19.—Careful study of the military situation on the northern frontier leads French military observers to the conclusion that the events transpiring in Belgium today are the beginning of operations on an immense scale. Germany, it is declared, is making a fresh and mightier effort to break

FRANCO-PRUSSIAN WAR IN TABLOID FORM.

The present attempt of the Germans to march on Paris recalls the similar plan of that nation during the Franco-Prussian war, when Count Bismarck marshaled the entire forces of Germany against the French in 1870. The fighting began on August 4, at the battle of Weißenburg, where the French suffered a disastrous defeat. Other famous battles of the war took place at Mars-la-Tour, Gravelotte, Sedan and Strassburg, all the victories going to the Germans. The battle of Sedan, on September 1, 1870, was the really decisive contest of the war. With all the French armies in the provinces defeated, the French made negotiations for an armistice, which later brought peace between the warring nations.

The cause of the war was France's jealousy of the growing importance of Prussia, which power Bismarck was determined to place at the head of a United Germany. The political situation in Spain furnished an occasion for the actual outbreak of hostilities. Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern consented to be a candidate for the vacancy of the Spanish throne. The arrangement had the approval of the king of Prussia, but the French regarded the plan with displeasure, and demanded that no Hohenzollern prince be permitted to accept the crown. The demands of the French were not recognized by Germany, and the French took immediate steps for war.

The war settlement gave Alsace and most of Lorraine, including the cities of Metz and Trier, to Germany. Germany also got a war indemnity of $1,069,000,000.

into France through the comparative open Belgium country.

Government opinion in Paris, however, is confident that the allies will be able to meet this shock successfully and reply to it crushingly.

Cannonading Begins. A dispatch to the Paris Midt from Brussels dated today, says cannonading was distinctly heard in Brussels at six o'clock this morning. The correspondent adds it is understood that a German army is marching upon Brussels by way of Huy and Jodeligne.

It is explained that the event of this report true, it would be neither a grave symptom or unexpected. The defensive organization of Belgium as conceived by General Brialmont and presented in technical words, provides that Antwerp be considered as a last defense. It has been fortified with care and is today a vast entrenched camp upon the flank of the enemy.

Battle in Progress. London, Aug. 19.—A dispatch to Reuters' Telegraph Company from Brussels sent at seven last night says a fierce battle is in progress between the Belgians and Germans along the extreme front. Large numbers of refugees are arriving from Trierleont.

Slaughter at Dinant. Paris, Aug. 19.—Details of the fighting at Dinant between the French and German troops show that the carnage was terrible. The first French company held a position until another

FRENCHMAN PREDICTS A WAR TO THE DEATH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Aug. 19.—"Outpost combats, however interesting and characteristic, do not justify us in counting upon the certainty of a prompt and definite victory," writes former minister of foreign affairs Steven Pichon in the Petit Journal.

"I find too much said about the Germans being demoralized. Their original overconfidence may give place to doubt, but that is all. The war now beginning is a war to the death. On it hangs the existence of Germany as well as that of France. It will be waged furiously on both sides. It will probably be long and the losses enormous."

Let us make up our minds to the fact that we have to confront with the most redoubtable army in Europe and have need for all our material and moral forces."

Count Witte's Version. Paris, Aug. 19, 3:20 a. m.—A news dispatch from Berlin quotes Count Witte, the Russian statesman, who is on his way from Biarritz to Russia, as declaring the European war would not last more than two or three months. It was bound to end, he said, in the downfall of Germany. Russia's mobilization has been carried out slowly but surely, and her army was certain to vanquish Germany whatever might happen.

VICTIMS OF NEGRO NOW NUMBER SEVEN

David Lindblom, Gardener, is Last to Succumb as Result of "Love Cottage" Tragedy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Spring Green, Wis., Aug. 19.—The victims of the murderous attack of Julian Carleton, the negro chef at the "love cottage" now number seven. David Lindblom, aged 45, the gardener, was the last to succumb. The sixth victim was Thomas Brunkert, aged 60, a laborer, who died late Monday night.

The list of those killed by the attack of the negro are:
Mrs. Mamah Bouton Borthwick, 35 years old, "soul mate" of Frank Lloyd Wright, Chicago architect.
John Cheney, 12 years old, Chicago, her son.
Martha Cheney, 9 years old, Chicago, her daughter.
Emil Brodelle, 26 years old, 3519 Clark street, Milwaukee, draftsman.
Ernest Weston, 15 years old, son of William Weston, foreman of the grounds.
Thomas Brunkert, 60 years old, laborer, Ridgeway, Wis.

David Lindblom, 45 years old, gardener, died Tuesday.

Sheriff T. J. Williams, at Dodgeville, where Carleton is held in the county jail, states that the negro may cheat the Wisconsin law which forbids capital punishment. "Carleton may yet die of strangulation," said the sheriff, "or he may starve to death in jail."

The doctors say his throat is so burned with acid that when it begins to scale he may neither be able to breathe or to swallow.

The body of Brunkert was removed to his home in Ridgeway, where the funeral will be held Thursday morning. The body of Lindblom will be held in Spring Green. He is a native of Denmark and has no relatives in this country.

CITY OF OSHKOSH IS TORNADO SWEPT

Storm on Tuesday Does Much Damage to Residences and Factories.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Oshkosh, August 19.—Oshkosh today is recovering from the effects of the tornado which swept through the center of the city Tuesday leaving a wake of heavy property loss.

The storm was of short duration but manufacturing plants, school houses, residences, boats and nearly every form of property exposed suffered heavily. The path was through the center of the city and traveled to the outskirts where it leveled cornfields, stripped fruit trees and laid gas pipes to ruin.

Among the establishments in the city to suffer most were the McMillan plant, the Cameron-Campbell sawmill, the Hollister-Ames sawmill, the Oshkosh-Grass Matting company, the Diamond Match factory, the Oshkosh Trunk factory, the Oshkosh Bottle Wrapping company, and the Buckner company plant. The Christ Episcopal church tower was blown over to a dangerous angle and the finest shade trees in Menominee park were completely destroyed. The Fox river between Lake Winnebago and Lake Butte des Morts.

Two hours later another party of Americans was halted at that very spot by a skirmish between the Belgians and Uhlans. They were forced to lie in a ditch while the Belgians fired over them. Next day three thousand Germans were killed by the mines we had seen the engineers planting.

The Patten party finally reached Liege on August 4, and got a train for Brussels two hours later.

"We arrived at Liege at one o'clock on the afternoon of August 14. Mr. Patten wanted to get a train for Brussels two hours later, but we did not leave before we heard the thunder of the fort's cannon repulsing the assault of the Germans. The town was cold with fear."

Other passengers on board the Finland said that Mr. Patten had bought steamship tickets for nine stranded Americans.

FARM CREDIT SYSTEM TO AID DEVELOPMENT

LAND MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED TO FLOAT LONG TERM FARM LOANS.

A BOON FOR SETTLERS

Madison, Wis., Aug. 19.—Wisconsin is solving the problem of getting money for agricultural investment, according to the state board of public affairs.

This state has provided a plan by which the farmer can secure on a land mortgage a loan for ten to twenty years at a low rate of interest and with the privilege of making small installment payments.

Already two land mortgage associations organized on this plan are operating in Wisconsin, under the law passed by the 1913 legislature. One of these is at Eau Claire, the other at Marinette. About fifteen other associations have made application to the state banking department for charters. It has been a part of the work of the Board of Public Affairs to explain this plan to the farmers.

Better Farm Credit.

All states and also the federal government, have recognized that rapid development of farm lands and an increase in the number of farmers owning their land is impossible under the present system of farm credits. Pioneers or settlers on uncultivated land cannot obtain the money from the soil sufficient money in the term of years ordinarily granted on loans on farm mortgages to discharge the mortgage by the time it falls due. The same is true of the farmer whose land must be drained and fenced and whose permanent buildings are still to be erected.

Germany owes her tremendous advance in agriculture to a system of rural credit, which has been in operation for many years. The system which has been adopted in Wisconsin is similar to that which has been in operation in Germany for many years. The land mortgage association law of Wisconsin, adopted at the session of 1913, is designed especially to aid the farmer in obtaining the money for the permanent improvements on land already owned or purchased equipment.

Land Mortgages Avoided.

Heretofore, money lenders have not considered the land mortgage as a convenient and desirable security. Good land mortgages always have been considered as a perfect security against the loss of principal. Generally neither banks nor individual investors have accepted land mortgages, because these securities cannot be quickly and easily converted into money. And banks must have their funds invested in securities that are always marketable—securities that are of standard denominations and can be sold in any quantity from $100 up, and that can be sold in any money market without a sacrifice of value. The regulation old-style farm mortgage was too unwieldy, too clumsy an instrument of credit to be popular with money lenders. And this element more than any other has denied to the farmer the credit to which his business and his property entitles him. On the other hand, the fact that farm mortgage loans were given for a short term, five to ten years at the most, made the land mortgage a difficult thing for the farmer to handle. In addition to a high rate of interest, under the old plan, the borrower often was required to pay a considerable commission to the person securing him the loan.

Pay in Installments.

Under the new law these loans will run from 10 to 20 or even 30 years and can be paid off in small installments without danger of the mortgage being foreclosed. This plan is expected to greatly assist in the development of Northern Wisconsin and to encourage settlers in every part of the state where there is idle or uncultivated land.

Under the plan outlined in the 1913 law, fifteen or more persons, adult resident freeholders of Wisconsin, may incorporate with a capital stock of not less than $10,000 for the purpose of making loans secured by first mortgages on Wisconsin real estate. The mortgages thus obtained may be deposited with the state treasurer, and the association may then use the money to the amount of the mortgages so deposited. The bonds issued are the direct obligations of the association and shall be no more than the amount of the securities on deposit with the state treasurer.

Each association, the act provides, shall be managed by a board of trustees and shall have a committee of directors and an auditing committee. The duties and functions of the different officers, boards and committees are so planned that each acts as a check upon the other.

The granting of loans is safeguarded, first, by a provision imposing a double liability upon stockholders for the obligations of the association, which includes the loan; secondly, by a requirement that the assessor of income shall certify that the value placed upon any property for the purposes of a loan does not exceed its market value; thirdly, by a provision that no loan shall be made unless the committee on loans shall be satisfied that a loan for the purpose specified by the applicant promises to benefit him and by other provisions for the conservation of the payment of taxes, insurance, special assessments, etc.

Most of the law applicable to state banks and their supervision made applicable to these land mortgage associations. RUNAWAY GIRLS ARE NOT WITH DU BROCKS

Did Not Leave City With Equestrian Company According to Letter From Manager.

That the two missing Janesville girls did not follow his company is the statement of Prof. Walter C. Du Brock of the equestrian company which presented the entertainment program at the Janesville fair last week. In a letter from Chicago Mr. Du Brock says: "The Janesville Daily Gazette, Janesville, Wisconsin, has published a notice in its issue of August 15th relative to the disappearance of two young Janesville girls.

"The article gives the impression that my company was wholly or in part responsible for this disappearance. All I can say is that I had no knowledge of it until the article referred to called it to my attention.

"I can assure you that no one came away from Janesville with my company except the members that came to Janesville with it and were regularly in my employ.

"I deplore the fact that this occurred as it is the only incident that came up during my stay in Janesville (except the trouble one of the singers got involved in) that reflected on the moral status of my company, and this one incident of the singer was sufficient grounds for me to discharge the singer.

"I do not want the good people of Janesville to think I would tolerate immoral conduct on the part of any member of my organization. Hence I have a right to expect your paper to place me in the proper light before the people as an entertainer that exacts of his company a very high standard of ethical and moral conduct.

"Most respectfully,"

TEACHERS' SALARIES HAVE WIDE VARIANCE

Bureau of Education Presents Interesting Statistics in a Recent Bulletin.

Wide variation in the pay for the same or similar work is one of the most striking situations revealed by the investigation of teachers' salaries just completed by the U. S. Bureau of Education under the direction of J. C. Boykin, editor of the bureau. Public elementary school teachers may receive $2,500 a year, as some do in New York city, or $45 a year, as in certain rural communities. Even in cities of the same class there are considerable differences in the salaries paid teachers. On the administrative side there are county superintendents with pay ranging from $115 to $4,000 per annum, and college presidents receiving salaries all the way from $3900 to $12,400.

In city school systems salaries have increased steadily in recent years, particularly in the western states; and, in general, salaries in city school systems are fairly well standardized. The average salary of superintendent of schools in cities of over 250,000 population is $7,175; the range is from $4,000 to $10,000. In the same group of cities high school principals average $2,555 and elementary teachers $1,013. Even in the smallest cities listed, those between 5,000 and 10,000 population, salaries are fairly uniform. The maximum for superintendents in this group is $3,600 and the average $1,195; but elementary teachers show an annual average of $533, with salaries as high as $1,350 and as low as $104. It is in the colleges and universities that the widest variation prevails. The salaries of men with the rank of "professor" range from $450 to $7,500. "Professors" in some institutions receive less than "instructors" or "assistants" in others. Salaries of deans of these institutions vary from $500 to $5,000. University teachers of subjects for which there is direct commercial demand outside receive somewhat higher salaries than those in charge of the traditional academic subjects, but the difference is less than might be expected. The highest average salaries for full professors are paid in law and civil engineering. Law claims the highest average salary of $7,500; but there are professors of physics, geology, and Latin who receive $7,000. It is significant, however, that on the basis of the figures reported most college teaching, particularly in the first two years, is done by men of instructor grade with salaries of $1,000 to $1,900, or by assistants who receive on the average about $500, usually for half-time services.

Quite as noteworthy is the variation in salaries for state superintendents of public instruction. The salaries of the chief school officers in the various

Mike Gibbons says that only once has he lost his temper in a fight. He speaks of a time when a blow on the nose from Jimmy Clabby made him frantic with rage and he felt that he wanted to slaughter Clabby. With the result that he himself got a beautiful bruise. "It was in a fight with Clabby in Winnipeg and all was going nicely for the first several rounds," relates Gibbons. "We were both in great condition and it looked like it would be an even fight all through. In the sixth round though, Clabby handed me a stinging blow on the nose and I most went crazy I was so mad. I let go a wild swing at him that missed him several blocks. Jimmy kidded me about it and had the edge on me all the rest of the way. I think if I could have drawn Clabby into a clinch I would have choked him."

A rumor would have us believe that if the Cleveland Naps don't hold tight to Larry Lajoie he will skip to the Reds. The possibility of a Red invasion of Cleveland with Larry Lajoie to lead the team has fretted the Cleveland owners. It is pointed out that Lajoie would be the ideal man to lead a Red team in Cleveland. He is one of the most popular players that ever appeared in Cleveland and if he had any sort of a team with him he would pack the stands. That Larry did go to the Reds, however, seems rather remote, since a number of other A. L. teams would make an effort to get him first.

Ty Cobb signs up for three more years with the Tigers. Moved by a mere whim, Ty has had the ten day contract, though his present one contains it. It will surprise many to learn that he doesn't get a raise in pay. It might be thought that an old faithful employee—he has been with the Tigers ten years—would be offered an increase in wages if only for sentimental reasons. Not so with Cobb. He must content himself with the old sum of $15,000 a year.

It may be pleasant to be in the public eye at times when things are going nicely, but what an unlovely experience it is when the voice of public indignation is raised against one. Baseball managers are not immune to the truth of this. Frank Clarke, once a hero in Pittsburgh, is today almost ashamed to appear on the streets. All the great things he has ever done are speedily forgotten when the team starts to hit a slump. Birmingham, at the head of the Cleveland Naps, was isolated last year in Cleveland. This season he is unpopular to a startling degree. The fans who sang his praises last year revile him bitterly now. And so it goes.

SEVERAL ROADS ARE CLOSED TO TRAFFIC

County Highway Commissioner Moore Makes Statement on Conditions of Highway Under Construction

In a statement issued today County Highway Commissioner C. E. Moore tells of the condition of the county highways now under construction and indicates roads which are closed to traffic. His statement follows: "Recent rains have softened the roads that are under process of construction, therefore it is advisable to inform the public as to the roads which are in fit condition for travel. It has been necessary to suspend the daily bulletins owing to the press of business. "The four mile road north of Janesville is being heavily graded and is unsafe for travel. "The Hanover road in the town of Rock and also the Hanover-Orfordville road in the town of Plymouth are likewise badly torn up and are practically impassable during this wet weather. Take the upper Footville road instead.

"Work is completed in the town of Beloit and the Happy Hollow bridge has been installed. This gives a clear track between Janesville and Beloit on the east side of the river. "The work is also completed in the towns of Milton and Harmony and also in Fulton, making good traveling for all points north of Janesville except that considerable grading has been done by the town of Janesville on the Indian Ford road which is quite slippery in wet weather.

"The Evansville-Janesville road in the town of Porter is under process of construction and practically impassable. Take the Magnolia road between Janesville and Evansville. "The roads in Spring Valley are nearly completed. They are also completed in the towns of Union and Clinton. Work is under way in the town of Turtle on the Milwaukee and state line roads but they were in fair condition for travel at last reports. It would be advisable to take the Shoreline road between Beloit and Clinton. "The Delavan road in the town of Bradford is impassable for anything but light travel. Notice will be given from time to time of changes.

"CHAS. E. MOORE, "Highway Commissioner."

for many years the leading Catholic kingdom of Europe.

Once the kingdom of Poland included

What is practically all of Germany's possessions of the ancient Poland, all that Russia now controls, the various parts that Austria is master of,

and the ancient kingdoms of Hungary and Bohemia, now Austrian territory. It was a powerful people that fell by their own mistakes. Gradually its expansion of territory was lost to it.

Hungary and Bohemia dropped out of the confederacy early in the seventeenth century. Later Lithuania was added, but only to desert later.

Weak kings, vassalizing nobles seeking personal gain, cruelty to the peasants residing within its borders, the greed of its neighbors, now rising to power, marked the end of the kingdom. In 1772 when the first part of Austria began dividing the spoils,

then came the last stand of the Poles.

In 1793 under the gallant Kosciuszko,

who had aided the thirteen colonies in their struggle for liberty, and the doom of Poland was fixed. Prussia took what she wished. Austria gathered the eastern provinces and Russia

took the rest.

The glory of Poland has become but a memory. The fame of Cracow, its ancient capital, is but a dream of past decades. Moscow, with its wonders,

a Russian city and for over a century the Poles have been a people

without a country, almost without a language. Now comes the promise of a semi-revival of their ancient kingdom. Is it little wonder the descendants of the ancient heroes are flocking to the standard of the Czar, that Poles in this country rejoice. They are to come into their own once more.

THE LOST INDIVIDUAL.

War in all its horrors brought closely home to us the European war

masters. The Chicago Tribune describes the "Lost Individual" in the following editorial in so graphic a manner that it brings us in touch with the real situation as it exists in Belgium, the present scene of the struggle, that will shake thrones and nations to their very foundations.

"After the first German forces had gone into Belgium against Liege there was found on one of the roadways, a body of a man holding an umbrella.

Some orderly, circumspect citizen, accustomed to guarding himself against such accidents of life as a sudden downpour, had gone from home, carrying that protection of respectability,

an umbrella. Respectability does not submit willingly to the discomfort of dripping clothes and the umbrella is the token of a precise nature.

"His fate was sufficiently terrible in its irony to get a line in the cables,

and the picture of the man with the umbrella lying dead in the roadway

as the troops passed on umbrella was the individual, and Europe no longer is made up of individuals. It is made up of masses. The individual has been lost. A regiment may be scattered, a brigade routed, a division

hammered, but the individual is gone.

"Two weeks ago the life of the man with the umbrella was sacred.

He might have been a timid person,

but he would have gone almost anywhere in Europe protected by his own consciousness of his individual value.

Society was organized to protect him.

Laboratories and bacteriologists and surgeons worked to guard him.

"His individualism was consciously important. Suddenly it becomes nothing. Only masses count. The individual is lost."

There is apparently a diversity of opinion as to whether the allies or the Germans have gained any advantage

in the fighting that has thus far marked the great war of ages. Both sides claim victories and as the news

is so carefully censored it is hard to get at the truth of the whole affair.

Thousands of lives lost, is admitted,

but who won is the question the world

awaits with anxiety.

No one really stops to consider

Mexico and its troubles these days for that little skirmish was merely a curtain-raiser for the big show that is holding the center of the stage and absorbing all the limelight. But

Watchful, Waiting Woodrow may find

use for his soldiers down in Yucatan

yet if Carranza does not live up to promises.

Evansville this week and Beloit

next. There is a fair list for you made to order with lots of thrills and plenty of excitement for those that enjoy such things. Janesville set the pace and the rest must work hard to live up to the reputation set for the 1914 fairs in this section of the country.

Japan's demands upon Germany

have complicated matters and have given the jingoists another opportunity of announcing the United States is on the verge of war with our island friends across the Pacific.

The crops needed rain all right but the residents did not need all that thunder and lightning to impress upon them that it was raining.

BELIEVES CANDIDATES

SHOULD KEEP A RECORD

OF "CAMPAIGN LIES"

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Aug. 19.—A record of

"campaign lies" is the unique proposal

made by Representative William (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma. He insists that candidates, when filing

their official counts of campaign

expenses, be required to file a record under oath of a list of all pre-variations, falsehoods, and lies he has invented or circulated, uttered or printed against his opponents or any of them.

Representative Rucker of Missouri

jocularly suggested to Murray that such a record would completely swamp

the election officials and clerks from one end of the country to the other with additional and unnecessary work.

He said the work would be unnecessary because the general public knows that almost every other word spoken

by candidates who are campaigning are stretched to some extent when they are directed against an opponent.

"FRANKED" MATTER SHOWS

CAMPAIGNS IN PROGRESS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Aug. 19.—Evidence that members of congress are presenting in their campaigns for "re-frontation" is seen at the local postoffice in the greatly increased

"franked" mail. This "franked" matter includes speeches and marked portrials of the Congressional Record, together with matter from party headquarters.

Recently during one-half a day

there were sent out by actual count

219,000 short speeches, 35,000 long speeches and 44 sacks of campaign

material. It has been found necessary to employ an additional force of mail distributors and clerks. If the campaign gets any hotter even more

will be needed, according to the postmaster.

On The Spur of The Moment

The Movies.

I love the dear old movie show,

Because it is a clink I know,

Exactly what I'm going to see.

That's why the thing appeals to me.

I know I'll see some western skit,

Wherein some handbit bites the grit,

And ponies skurrying to and fro,

A punk frontier saloon or so.

DIRT-PROOF MILK PAIL

Milk is Strained by Passing Through a Cloth Which Covers Opening.

A great deal of the dirt and dirt

which goes into the milk will be excluded therefrom by the use of the new sanitary milking pail recently invented. The principal feature of this design is that the bucket is always entirely covered and that the milk is strained before it reaches the interior of the pail. The pail has extensions on either side by which it is quite convenient to support it upon the knees rather than between them, thus lessening the labor and ensuring the security of the contents of the bucket. The upper portion of the bucket is protected with a lid which almost covers the entire opening, leaving only a small aperture at the rim and in practice this aperture is covered by a piece of fine cloth with provision made for securing this in place. As the milk is drained from the cow it enters the bucket through this opening, passing first through the fabric. With reasonable care there is little possibility of foreign matter entering the milk pail supplied with this feature.

WISCONSIN INFANTRY HELD 45TH REUNION IN THIS CITY TODAY

Thirtieth Badger Veteran Volunteers Held Annual Session at One O'Clock—Sixty-One Present.

The forty-fifth annual reunion of the 13th Wisconsin Infantry took place in this city today. With sixty-six members of the ten companies present at one o'clock. In the absence of President James H. Bliss, who lies on his death bed at his home, 302 North Academy street, W. E. Clarke, of Milton, secretary of the organization, called the meeting to order at one o'clock sharp in the East Side Odd Fellows hall on North Main street. The meeting followed the usual order, served the old gentlemen, by the women of the Woman's Relief Corps, in the dining hall adjoining. A conversational hour was indulged in by many of the members. Dissatisfaction seemed to prevail among a few, relative to the city of Janesville, but a few flags about their homes, or through the downtown district. The reunion of the 13th Infantry held in Janesville every year, is gradually losing in number of members attending, and some form of celebration would be no more than fitting, is the strong belief of the soldiers.

The meeting this afternoon was an interesting one. After the business of the day was completed, an informal program was the form of procedure. Interesting war stories and short talks were given by many of the members, which added to the interest and enthusiasm of the reunion.

There is a great interest taken as shown by the fact that one member, now residing in Massachusetts, came all the way to attend the reunion today. The list of sixty-six members present today, in company groups, is as follows:

COUNCIL REFUSES TO WIDEN STREET

Monroe Street to Conform With Thirty Foot Ordinance — $9,000 School Addition Allowed.

Denial of the petition of property owners on Monroe street for the widening of that thoroughfare, favorable to the contemplated $9,000 addition to the Douglas school, and ordering a rechecking of the Monterey bridge with creosote blocks, together with divers minor business, occupied the city council in regular weekly session at the city hall yesterday afternoon.

The Monroe street case which has been hanging fire for some time, was settled in a manner which mayor and councilmen think will prove highly satisfactory in the future. Petitions by residents on the street, asked for a thirty-four foot thoroughfare but a city ordinance recently adopted makes thirty feet the standard for streets. It was thought advisable not to divert from the ordinance when comparison was made of the total feet frontage of property owners who favored and who opposed the change.

Acting on the resolutions presented by the school board for $9,000 for an addition to the Douglas school.

The council instructed the city attorney to prepare the lawful bond ordinance, the sum to be added into eighteen bonds of $500 at 4 1/2 percent payable annually. Plans are to have the addition ready for occupancy January first.

The city engineer was charged to secure plans and specifications for the rebuilding of Monterey bridge with creosote blocks and the board of public works instructed to purchase the necessary materials.

E. D. Tracy was appointed special policeman without pay to guard the dam repairs and materials.

It was thought advisable to announce that all property owners desiring connections with the sanitary sewer systems, to be undertaken in the work contemplated, with this plan under way and the council knowing approximately what work is to be done, early plans for the spring sewer work can be made.

BELGIAN KONGO IS AN OBJECTIVE POINT

German Troops in Africa May Seek to Capture This Valuable Territory.

Belgian Kongo, in Africa, frequently mentioned in recent European dispatches as a possible objective point of the German troops, is the home alike of the most progressive negroes of Africa and of the most primitive and savage cannibals, according to a statement issued by the National Geographical society at Washington, D. C., today.

"This African colony is so cut up by rivers and impenetrable forests that the tribes inhabiting the country vary greatly in their customs and language," says the society's bulletin.

"But a few miles distant from these barbarous savages are endless plantations of millet and grain of their civilized countrymen. The cannibal Bakutis of Belgian Kongo make a practice of removing the upper incisors. Their dress consists of a pleated skirt, which does not quite meet on the right thigh; but the women in the south wear a hide girdle with a deep fringe of palm-leaf string. Among this tribe the slaves are compelled to wear a special dress, which is, in fact, the ordinary costume of Akela, to which tribe most of them belong. The Bakutis are great cannibals, as far as the male members of the tribe are concerned, and the victims are always slaves. In fact, all slaves are ultimately eaten, since it is believed that if a slave were buried his ghost would kill his master."

"Their chief weapon is the bow, poison being used on the arrows. Shields are now obsolete. One of their most interesting points is their use of a conventional throwing knife as currency. The Bakutis are almost the only tribe of this region who have been successful in resisting the advance of the white man. This fact is due to their skill in forest warfare. The way leading to their village is defended by poisoned spikes hidden by leaves. They use bows and arrows set like traps in the form of primitive spring guns, and are quite ready, if a white man is expected, to bait such traps with a live baby, being sure that the European will be unable to resist the temptation to pick up an apparently abandoned child. The poison they use is absolutely deadly."

"Not far from the cannibal region peace and security reign. The endless plantations, clean villages and well-kept houses make an impression of general prosperity. The Batetela, also of Belgian Kongo, is an excellent agriculturist and stock-breeder and very industrious. He is not at all conservative; any innovation will tempt him. Rice, Madagascar potatoes and fruit trees imported by the white man are found in every village. The people are scantily clothed, but this is of great advantage in their hunting expeditions. The heaviest of mere skeletons, pulling themselves languidly about with the light of insanity in their eyes, where one should see the delightful round-bellied native children. And to add to the horror of the disease, here lions and leopards have become man-eaters, since the half-starved one, driven from the fear-stricken village, is the easiest game to stalk."

"An interesting feature of Batetela psychology lies in the fact that suicide appears not to be uncommon and is regarded as an act of courage. Deceit is reckoned on the male line, and children are considered as more closely akin to the father's side."

MISS BYRNE WEDDED TO MICHAEL SMITH

Nuptials Were Solemnized at St. Mary's Church on Tuesday Morning.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's church this morning when Miss Elizabeth Byrne became the bride of Michael R. Smith. Rev. W. A. Goebel read the marriage service. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Rose Byrne, and the groom by Thomas Farrell of Janesville. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with shadow lace. The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of pink brocade silk with pearl trimming.

The bridal party took breakfast at the Grand hotel and then departed under a shower of rice for an extended trip through the northwestern states. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home to their friends after September 1st, on South High street.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN.
THE other day I expressed a wish that someone would invent an ink eraser, some solution which could be applied with a brush to the word or letter which you wish to remove and which would quickly absorb it without leaving a mark. If there were any danger of corroding the paper another solution which would neutralize this action could be promptly applied.

Having sketched out this apparently feasible idea, I waited for applause. Instead I was promptly assured, "If it could have been done someone would have done it long ago."

I wonder for how many centuries conservatives have been saying that to restless folks who had new ideas.

I wonder if there ever was a great inventor whose invention was not credited by wisecracks who told him that the thing couldn't possibly be done because, if it could, someone would have done it long ago.

For instance in many modern houses they are building bathtubs flush with the floor—an excellent plan since it saves the labor of cleaning under them. Why wasn't that done fifty years ago? For no reason except that it was too obvious.

Again, we had automobiles for several years before a device was put on the market by which the tire could be pumped up by power from the engine. Yet one would think that would be one of the first ideas to occur to manufacturers of automobile accessories.

I have always hated that saying, "There is nothing new under the sun." That's a treadmill man's point of view. Of course there is no new matter under the sun but there are a billion possible combinations of existing matter. If you extend permutations and combinations you remember that with a hundred factors, tens of thousands of combinations are possible. Consider, then, the infinite possibilities in a world in which the factors for combination are measured by the million.

Because a thing has not been done is no reason whatever that it can't be done. It is simply a challenge to find out why it hasn't been done and if the reasons are not sufficient and the thing is worth doing, to do it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you tell me a good recipe to make pork and beans with tomato sauce? (2) Can you give me a good recipe for tomato catsup like you buy? (3) What are the latest styles in furniture for dining room, living room and parlor, and what is the correct way to place the silverware at the table? (4) Are they using any pieces any more?
YOUNG HOUSE-KEEPER.
(1) Soak two pounds of navy beans over night in cold water, to which a little soda has been added. Next morning pour off the water and add salt. When beans are almost tender, pour off water, put them in a baking dish, put on top a chunk of salt pork—about a pound, either whole or sliced—season with pepper and a little salt, and a quart can of tomatoes or two equivalent in fresh tomatoes, with about a tablespoonful of sugar (more if you like) and a tablespoonful of mustard (stirred up in a little vinegar). Bake in a moderate oven and bake until pork is done (three to four hours).
(2) Catsup—One peck tomatoes, six onions, one quart vinegar, one cup salt, one tablespoon cinnamon, one of celery extract, one of ginger, one of black pepper.
(3) A great deal of willow and rattan furniture is being bought now, and it is made for a roomy, mahogany style. However, I would not advise you to furnish the house entirely in willow, as it will not remain in fashion permanently. Fumed oak is excellent for the dining room, mahogany for the parlor and mahogany in substantial form for the living room, or, if you prefer, any of the woods without a high polish. The styles are aimed at comfort more than style.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
Linen is easier to write on when marking if dipped in cold starch. The pen will then write without scratching.
To clean gilt frames, molding, etc., dip a soft cloth in the beaten white of an egg and gently wipe off the spots and dirt.
It is best to give linens a long soaking before washing. If this method is followed stains will wash out easily.
In the closet of the guest chamber there should be coat and skirt hangers.
THE TABLE.
Baked Spinach—Use half a peck of spinach. Pick over the leaves carefully, removing all wilted ones and the roots. Wash thoroughly and put in just enough water to start a steam. Cover until it begins to cook, turning the spinach with a fork so it will cook evenly. Young, tender spinach will be a brilliant clear green without the addition of soda to the water, if cooked properly. Very little water is required and just as much as the spinach is tender drain in a colander. Chop fine and put in a baking dish. Put a cup of milk in a sauce pan, add a tablespoonful of butter, a small teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, and a little grated nutmeg. Let it come to a boil and stir into the spinach. Add two well-beaten eggs, and bake in moderately hot oven for about ten minutes. Serve at once. This may be baked in individual cups or dishes and served as an entrée or for a luncheon dainty instead of meat.
Escalade la Diabla—Take the meat of one large, fresh boiled lobster and dice it; drain and dry twelve raw oysters; cut in half one fresh cucumber, remove the seeds, then slice it thin, mix and put in a bowl to marinate one hour in a dressing made as follows: Four tablespoons olive oil, two of horseradish vinegar, salt, cayenne pepper, teaspoon of Worcester-

The Kitchen Cabinet

We suffer from disease through ignorance. We escape through knowledge. We make them hope and hope is health. Science stands holding out resources, devices and remedies we are too stupid to use.

BITS OF INFORMATION.

To keep the kitchen range black and clean looking, wash it off each time with the dish water, using a cloth kept for that purpose.
Keep a large mouthed jar near the sink to take all the scraps of soap and when there is sufficient, add a little boiling water and have a soap jelly which will be nice for dish washing.

When stubborn spots refuse to be removed from the kitchen floor, especially grease spots, soak newspapers in soda water and lay on the spots, wetting the paper occasionally to keep them moist.

When a candle is too large for the stick, hold the candle in a little hot water to soften then push it into place and it will hold firmly.

Cream cheese beaten until it is almost foamy, served with plum jelly and waters makes a most tasty dessert.

When preparing pumpkin for pies cut up the pumpkin skin and all, just removing the seeds. Cook until soft then put through a sieve or colander and let it slowly dry out on the stove or in the oven.

When string comes around packages do not spend time rolling it, hang it on a nail out of sight where a string may quickly be pulled when needed.

When sugar is bought by the hundredweight, one saves not only on the price per pound but also on the weight, as fresh sugar is more moist than that which has been some time out of the factory.

When stains get under the nails use an orange wood stick dipped in oxalic acid.

One camper who has eaten up with mosquitoes wet rags with kerosene and hung them around. The results were fine if the odor was unpleasant.

Do not forget to put cold water on cocoa stains and then wash in soapy water.

Salts of lemon which only costs ten cents and will last a year will remove rust spots with very little trouble. Simply saturate the spot with a solution of the salts and water.

They Died Anyway.
Writing in a medical journal, one of the most eminent physicians in America tells of keeping a record of 1,000 cases treated by him, in which the post mortem examinations revealed that in not more than fifty per cent. of the cases had his diagnosis been correct. Still, judging by the other fifty per cent, what difference would it have made had all been diagnosed correctly?—Chicago News.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a lady of sixty-five years of age and am going camping. Would white tennis shoes and pink stockings be appropriate for me to wear? (2) My husband has been dead for two years. Should I accept any proposals on my trip? "ANXIOUS."

(1) Mosquitoes will bite through pink stockings same as any other color. Also, pink won't stand off rheumatism. However, if white shoes and pink stockings are necessary in your scheme of happiness, wear them, by all means.
(2) Far be it from me to advise one who has arrived at your years of discretion.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are four young ladies, considered very good looking by most people and are all in love with the same man, the street sweeper. As we are intimate friends, we would like your experienced advice and would also like to know if we should consider his occupation beneath us? He has many excellent qualities and considered a man of good character.

shire sauce and one sliced shallot, two cloves and six drops lemon juice. Drain very carefully when ready, mix with mayonnaise and add a quarter cup of finely chopped celery. Serve in crisp lettuce leaves garnished with olives.

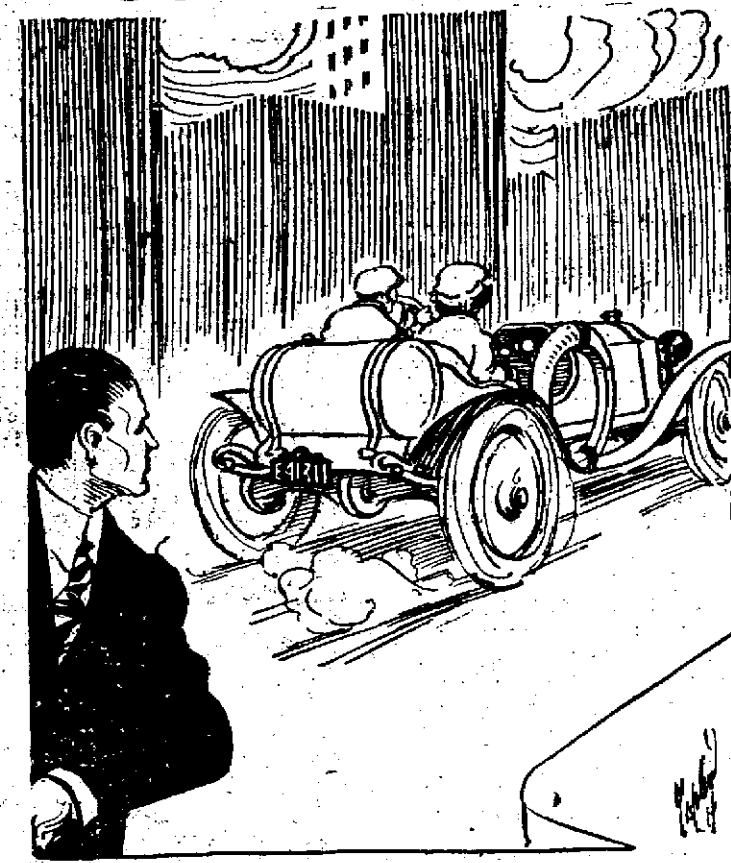

Pineapple Surprise Salad—Take one ripe sugar loaf pineapple, pare and remove the eyes; then, with a long sharp corer, remove the center core, cutting it away freely. Make a filling of a quarter pound of Roquefort cheese, a tablespoonful of chopped Canadian walnuts, two tablespoons of chopped celery, pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of sherry. Stuff the pineapple with the mixture and put away to chill for an hour, then slice on lettuce leaves, cover with mayonnaise and garnish with cream.

Garden Salad—Boiled fresh beets, string beans, carrots and asparagus tips. Boil until done but not falling to pieces. Cool and dice; serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing to which a tablespoonful of onion juice has been added.

Delicate Pudding—One and one-half cups water, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt; bring to a boiling point. Wet three tablespoons cornstarch in a little cold water, stir into boiling syrup and cook ten minutes. Beat whites of three eggs to a dry froth and whip the boiling mixture into them; return to fire for one minute to set egg, adding one-half cup lemon juice and a little of the grated rind. Turn at once into a mold or individual cup to become ice cold. Serve with fruit or plain or with cream for sauce. This is fine for sick people or anyone with a delicate stomach.

Cheese Egg—Grate a half pound of American dairy cheese, put it over the fire with a tablespoonful of butter, a half cup of good stock, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of paprika and a teaspoonful of sauce. Stir until the cheese is melted; then put in four or five well-beaten eggs and cook three minutes. Serve on buttered toast. An excellent luncheon dish.

Peggy & Company

Brother Tom Has to Decide on a Course of Action.

It is well for Peggy that Tom was the first of the family to learn of her friendship with the rapid Mr. Anderson. And Tom's attention had been drawn to it by a rather forceful manner. He was about to cross the street yesterday when a red machine went by so closely as to scatter dust on him. And, gazing after it in some indignation, he had been further surprised at a familiar feminine hat.

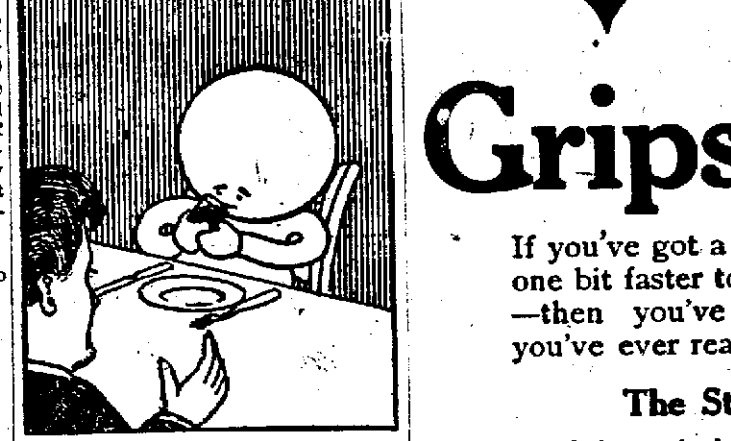

Peggy chasing about with Harry Anderson! It was, Peggy, all right, for Tom had satisfied himself on this point with a second look, and it was Harry Anderson, too. His red race about and the speed it made were well known to everyone in town.

The displeasure and anger Tom first felt at seeing Peggy in such circumstances soon settled into something more of an annoyance. Why, if she was trying to conceal things from the folks, must he be put in this situation? It was his duty, of course, to scamp home and tell the folks every horrible detail. But instinct made him disinclined to tattle. And as he walked slowly home, thinking it all over, he determined that he wouldn't say a word.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

(BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.)

Potato eating in many families has become such a habit that if they are not served three times daily the fam-meal. One cooking will save time and gas.

A potato omelet surrounded with bacon is a supper dish that fills well when the food supplies seem to be low. Prepare a quart of mashed potatoes—this takes about ten minutes and a half a cup of butter and a half a cup of milk. Beat until very light, then spread smoothly in a frying pan in bacon fat and cook for ten minutes, or until well browned. Then fold, turn on to a hot pan and serve with bacon or creamed ham. Hatched brown potatoes with nuts is a hearty dish that men and growing children will appreciate. Three cups of chopped cold potatoes, one cup of chopped nuts, three-fourths of a cup of milk, salt, pepper and butter or drippings. Mix together the potatoes, seasoning, peanuts and milk. Put about four tablespoonfuls of drippings into a frying pan. When he pack in the potato mixture, cover and cook very slowly until the milk is absorbed and the mixture is brown on the bottom. Fold over and serve on a hot platter. It is best when made quite thin.

A well known chemist says that when potatoes are pared and left to lie in cold water before cooking they lose eighty per cent of their already small amount of protein. Baked eggs with potatoes are easily prepared and this is not an expensive dish. Grease a shallow earthen dish with bacon fat. Fill it almost full with well seasoned mashed potato. Make indentations in the potato, pour in a little melted bacon fat, and brush the top of the mixture with it. Drop an egg into each hollow and set in the oven to bake until the eggs are set and the potatoes are browned. When you plan on a dish like the above for supper.

CHAPTER XII.

The Day He Would Remember.

The coming of the burglar brought things to a focus. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and Jane, though

she was frightened half to death, saw

in this untoward incident a strong argument to advance to Bob. Her endeavor to wean him from his determined attitude towards Brand's offer

had met with little success. In fact,

since the sharp rebuff she had received on the night of the millionaire's

first visit she had touched but lightly

on the matter. She had not conquered

her resentment of her husband's words

and she had gone blindly on in her

"conspiracy" with Brand, enjoying the automobile rides and the small luxuries that his "advance payments" brought,

without stopping to consider how

she was ultimately to earn her wage.

Brand, strangely enough, had not pressed her for reports. He seemed to be as willing as she to let the affair

take its course and rely on some final coup for success.

But Jane realized that nearly four weeks had passed and that soon Brand

would have to have her husband's report on the cement or supply the superior kind and let the gold lie dormant in the "corn field" where he had discovered it. If Bob was determined to tread the straight and narrow path

she was equally determined that he must not miss this opportunity of a life time. And if she had had the slightest doubts as to the probability of the transaction, the millionaire had banished them. His ready speech and the businesslike tone of his arguments

had convinced her that his ideas were simply the embodiment of successful tactics of the day.

Money makes money. That was

Brand's constant theme. "Why, if Bob gets this $40,000," he had told her,

"that will be but the beginning of his fortunes. I can point the way to investments and speculation that will double or triple the sum for him in a year."

So, Jane almost desperate now, decided to make capital out of her distress, and what she knew would be

Bob's distress, when he heard of her peril, and urge him again to take the means of escape from an environment

they both had come to realize was not congenial.

She and Collins went over before breakfast and viewed the scene of chaos left by the night intruder. The burglar's endeavor to get away had been much less orderly than his stealthy entrance. Overturned chairs and other evidences of disorder told the story of the struggle he had had

with the little defender of the home.

Jane wept as her neighbor lifted the body of the little terrier whose warning and subsequent courage had, perhaps, saved her from a greater calamity than being robbed. Collins carried the dog to a far corner of the garden.

They buried him and heaped a mound

above the spot. Jane promising herself that he should have a more permanent monument to his loyalty in the future.

After much persuasion and repeated assurances that they would never be left alone again, she prevailed upon her maid of all work to return to the house and she set about putting it in order.

In the evening Bob came. His separation from Jane, though but a day,

had seemed a week, for it was the first time. He took her in his arms and kissed her fervently. Reynolds loved for his wife was, like himself,

big and strong. The slight constraint

Jane had felt since the advent of

Brand and her clandestine meetings

with him, had not imparted itself to

Bob, for he was ignorant of the cause.

He was by nature very tender with those he loved. His address to Jane after five years of married life still be-

took of the endearing terms of honeymoon days. To the ears of aliens this turtle-dove patois often strikes a discordant note. Either it bespeaks hypocrisy and provokes a smile from the knowing, or it stamps the speaker

as a sentimental idiot. But from Bob tender phrases never had the sound of platitudes. They rang true. They took their strength from him and demanded like for like.

There are some women upon which such sincere devotion and respect as

Reynolds gave his wife seem to pall;

but they are not women; they are mere animated sparks, handmaidens

in a firmament of souls who dance and sparkle for a while, but who, lacking

dynamic warmth of their own, wither

and are effaced by real celestial rays.

Jane was not such a creature. She was not weary of Bob. In her yearning

for what she deemed the better things

she was as eager for him to share them as herself. She returned her husband's embraces now with as much ardor as they were given.

"Was I lonesome?" she said in answer to his question. "Well, I guess I was, and more than that. You simply can't leave me that way again, dearest."

"It won't happen often," he told her.

"We got caught napping on a big job

and I was the only man they could send. They asked me the last minute and there was no other way. I thought about you every minute, honey. You know I did," he added quickly, "for this Black river dam is only about twenty miles from your home and I passed through familiar scenes; scenes that we remember well, don't we? How many dear days they brought to mind."

She patted his cheek and led him

over to their corner at the window seat.

"I've got a lot to tell you, sweetheart. More than how I came home last night. You missed some excitement

last night."

Then as they sat, Turk, fashion-

ing among the pillows, she related her thrilling experience of the night before. His brows contracted as he listened. He leaned over once, drawing her to him and kissing her. The thought that she had been in actual peril alarmed him acutely. And it was not alone the thought of what she had passed through, but the thought that she might be called upon at any time to go through it again. He knew that he was at the beck and call of his company and that while he had not been chosen for such missions before,

now that it had used him in such capacity it would do so again. If that were so they would be better off back in New York. The stuffy little flat that had become such an eyre, such a prison; even that would be better than this secluded bungalow if his wife was to be subjected to dangers and terrors. He expressed his thoughts and Jane's response was ready.

"Bob," she said softly, "there is a way out of all this. I have taken you at your word and kept silent, but you know what I mean?"

A frown passed over his face; a look

not of anger, but of pain.

"You mean Brand?" he asked.

"Yes."

He dropped her hand. Unconsciously his whole form stiffened. He got up from the window seat and stood looking down at her.

"Yes, there is a way out," he answered, "but that is not the way."

Suddenly he caught her up in his arms.

"Jane," he cried, "I never want to speak harshly to you in my life. I did once and I have regretted it more than once. But you must not talk that way.

It is not that I wish to dominate, or love you one bit less for your persistency. In most matters you could make me do anything you wished. Not make me, for you know it is my joy to please you. But in this you hurt me;

not because you oppose me, but because it is you. You are good and you are honest and if you persevere in this it is because you do not understand.

That is what hurts; that I cannot make you understand; the blandish-

ments and wiles of a pure crook

should not outweigh the counsel of your husband."

His words hurt her again. Instinctively she recoiled as if they stood at opposite brinks of some chasm and she feared to take the leap. But Jane was in the light to stay this time. In her mind it was Bob who was blinded and not her. She was ready to receive the blow and parry it, but she was determined to return him for astringent

and do battle in a woman's way.

"But, Bob," she said, as she stepped to him and put her arms around his shoulder; "are we so unequal either mentally or morally? Isn't it possible that you are mistaken as well as I?"

"No, we are not unequal, dear," he answered, "and it is as possible for me to be wrong as you. But you are the knowing, or it stamps the speaker as a sentimental idiot. But from Bob tender phrases never had the sound of platitudes. They rang true. They took their strength from him and demanded like for like.

There are some women upon which such sincere devotion and respect as Reynolds gave his wife seem to pall; but they are not women; they are mere animated sparks, handmaidens in a firmament of souls who dance and sparkle for a while, but who, lacking dynamic warmth of their own, wither and are effaced by real celestial rays. Jane was not such a creature. She was not weary of Bob. In her yearning for what she deemed the better things she was as eager for him to share them as herself. She returned her husband's embraces now with as much ardor as they were given.

"Was I lonesome?" she said in answer to his question. "Well, I guess I was, and more than that. You simply can't leave me that way again, dearest." "It won't happen often," he told her. "We got caught napping on a big job and I was the only man they could send. They asked me the last minute and there was no other way. I thought about you every minute, honey. You know I did," he added quickly, "for this Black river dam is only about twenty miles from your home and I passed through familiar scenes; scenes that we remember well, don't we? How many dear days they brought to mind."

BIG CIRCUS HAS OWN POST OFFICE

Presided Over By Official Who Speaks
Many Languages and Makes Daily Distribution.

MAIL FROM ALL PARTS OF GLOBE

The strangest postoffice in the world is on wheels and is coming here with Ringling Brothers' circus. It was not established by the government, yet it is larger than many that are run by Uncle Sam. There probably is no other in America visited daily by such a crowd of cosmopolitans.

Jules Turnour is the postmaster of Ringlingville. He is well fitted for the job, as he speaks French, German, Jules Turnour, Postmaster of Ringlingville.

Spanish, Hindostani and Polish, and knows enough Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese and modern Greek to make himself understood in those tongues.

Fifteen minutes after the last section of the circus train reaches town, Jules may be found at the town postoffice.

There he fills his mail bags with bundles of letters, newspapers and packages from all corners of the earth. In another fifteen minutes he is in his own office on the ground floor of the circus tent, where he sits and distributes his mail and then opens the window. A long line of strange people, in which are representatives from twenty-nine nations, stands in waiting.

Then a congress of tongues begins, wagging as they did in the Tower of Babel. Letters come to Ringlingville every week from more than a hundred European and Asiatic cities.

But the postoffice is but one of the strange things to be seen with Ringling Brothers' circus. In addition to it and various other facilities, such as dynamo wagons, offices on wheels, the biggest kitchen in the world, there is the show itself. This season the program as the spectacle of the Queen of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba as its feature, and for this production are carried a cast of 1,250 actors, 300 dancing girls and a train load of accessories.

Then there is the arena display lasting almost two hours, a menagerie, numbering 1,003 wild animals, a splendid horse show, trained animal department, speed tournaments and the tomfoolery of fifty clowns for the little folks.

Ringling Brothers will exhibit in Janesville September 3rd.

ROUTS THE GARDEN PLAGUE

An Insecticide Which is Distributed by Means of the Garden Hose.

Eternal spraying is the only way to make any impression on the horde of bugs and blight which inflict their presence on the flower garden. Any one who undertakes to raise a few plants soon learns that there are many tribes of bugs for every kind of vegetation, and in order to prevent a struggling plant from utter destruction it is almost necessary to stand guard over it with an insect powder. Spraying is like making love to a widow. It is hardly possible to overdo it. If the solution made use of is of the correct composition and the proportion right frequent and thorough applications will keep down the horde of bugs and pests which are likely to find their way into the garden. The latest and easiest way of doing this is to apply the insecticide by means of the garden hose, thus doing away with the troubles and inconveniences of mixing and carrying the best waterizers.

An attempt was made to enter a house on Madison street this morning between three and four o'clock. Mrs. Teany was awakened by the barking of a small dog in her house and a bright light shining in the window explained the mystery. A person armed with a lantern was recon-noitering, and trying to enter the premises. She rose immediately and went to the window and the noise disturbed the night prowler, who was seen retreating at the gateway. The person seen wore light clothes. It was probably some person acquainted with the household, as a rich booty of about $350 happened to be in the house. Usually the premises would offer no such attraction.

The Doty company is busy preparing for Saturday's installment of "Home Theatricals" and the entertainment will justify their pains.

John Wray of this city, has sold his homestead in the fifth ward to Joseph Bleasdale, Esq., of Rock, and will remove with his family to Nebraska about the first of October. Mr. Wray's residence commenced in Janesville in 1843. His integrity and social qualities have won for him the esteem of the community, and his departure will cause regret.

OF THE GARDEN HOSE spraying solutions and the use of the sprayer. The pest destroyer in this instance is in the shape of a cake in a container which is secured to the end of the hose at the spigot. Thus all the water must pass around the cake of bug destroyer and it impregnates all the water that is applied to the garden. When the cake is consumed it is a simple matter to replenish it. The material designed for this use is said to have all the elements in it necessary to kill at the bugs which attack vegetation, to retard scale formation and to scatter ants.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Aug. 19.—The streets are quiet today, the heat, 92 degrees at noon, keeps everybody home unless necessity compels attention to business.

The St. George's Benevolent Association picnic at Buob's park will be one of the best things of its kind that has been seen in this neighborhood. Shady hooks for the devotees of the basket, music and a well floored hall for dancing, a pleasant scene and joyous faces, it would be hard to find a man that could fail to be happy in that assemblage. A prize is offered for the best waterizer.

An attempt was made to enter a house on Madison street this morning between three and four o'clock. Mrs. Teany was awakened by the barking of a small dog in her house and a bright light shining in the window explained the mystery. A person armed with a lantern was recon-noitering, and trying to enter the premises. She rose immediately and went to the window and the noise disturbed the night prowler, who was seen retreating at the gateway. The person seen wore light clothes. It was probably some person acquainted with the household, as a rich booty of about $350 happened to be in the house. Usually the premises would offer no such attraction.

The Doty company is busy preparing for Saturday's installment of "Home Theatricals" and the entertainment will justify their pains.

ROCK COUNTY FAIR IN GRAND OPENING

CHILDREN'S DAY BEGINS ACTIVITIES AT EVANSVILLE TODAY.

EXHIBITS ARE PROFUSE

Success of Events Already Ascertained—Stores to Close in Evansville Thursday.

Evansville, August 19.—The big Rock County fair officially opened today by children's day. In spite of the threatening weather attendance today exceeded the number usually on grounds on first day and gave assurance of this fair being the largest and best ever seen in Rock county.

The late preparations for the fair were hurried yesterday, every superintendent and official working at fever heat. All entries closed at 6 P. M. last night and the superintendents were kept busy caring for the rapidly arriving exhibits. Every inch of space is utilized and three large cattle and sheep pens and one large horse tent have been erected to fill the extra demand for space.

The recent rains have bettered the condition of the track which horsemen on grounds say they never saw in as good condition.

The cattle, sheep and swine exhibits make great showings, as not only have the cream stock of Rock County been entered, but also the best breeders in the northern part of the state are on the grounds.

Stands for refreshments and novelties have taken up all the space on the midway and under the grandstand.

A very good machinery and industrial exhibit is on the grounds. Nearly every company and store in town has space. The Baker Mfg. exhibit is especially large.

Today's amusement was for the children who certainly availed themselves of the day. They were very responsive in entering. The exhibits in the youth's and educational department being larger than ever before.

All children under 12 years were admitted to grounds free today.

The afternoon was turned over to the children and Shetland ponies. Judging begins tomorrow. The judges are appointed by the state and are experts. All farmers are invited to be present and see what work done and are at liberty to ask all the questions they like.

Beginning with tomorrow all stores will close at 10 A. M. not to reopen until 6 P. M. to remain open in the evenings. This gives the employees an opportunity to attend the fair and will aid in making the present fair even a greater success.

Charles Grulke and wife were in Janesville Monday where Mr. Grulke is receiving treatment for his eye, which was very badly injured by being struck by a stray bullet while he was out in his cornfield. Mr. Grulke did not hear any report of a gun and it must have been fired by some one at a great distance. The force was sufficient to knock him senseless to the ground.

Mrs. Carrie Smith is visiting her son William and family at Cuba City, Illinois.

R. G. Shiebel, candidate for sheriff, and Elmer Sampson of Beloit were here Monday.

Miss Jennie Ryan of Chicago, Mrs. W. O. Tarbell of Lake Geneva and Miss Genevieve House of Terre Haute, Indiana, spent Monday here the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boden.

The Methodist Sunday school picnic yesterday at Wyman's woods, north of town, was well attended and a very enjoyable affair for both old and young.

W. O. Newhouse of Janesville was here yesterday on business.

James Vinegar left yesterday afternoon for Dalhart, Texas, to look after his large ranch down there.

P. A. Carver, wife and daughter of Delavan were in town yesterday greeting old friends and neighbors.

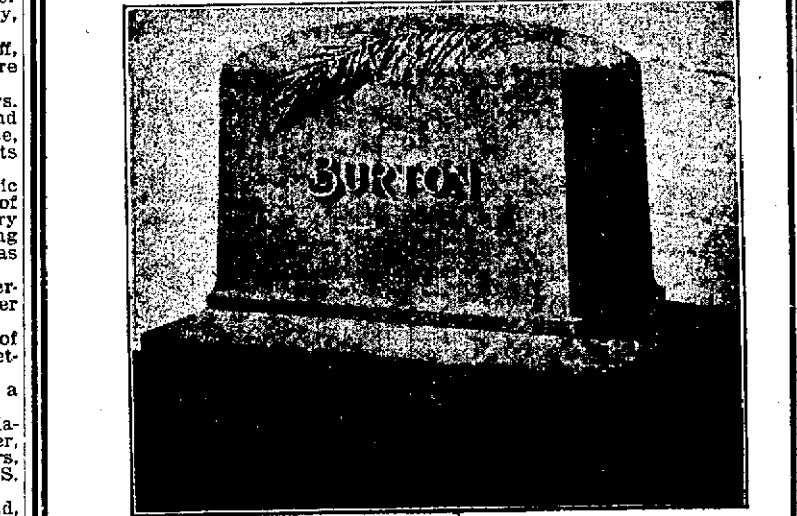

Walter Kemmerer has purchased a new touring car.

The entire village was shocked yesterday at noon to hear that Glen Buckley had been killed by a train at Shermerville, Illinois. C. M. & St. P. Agent F. M. Barnes received the news and it flew like wild fire, as Glen was well known and loved and respected by everyone in the village. He was about nineteen years old, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Buckley, and lived here for several years. Until his parents moved to Madison last fall. About three weeks ago he secured a position as time keeper on a work train on the C. M. & St. P. road. The accident occurred one mile east of Shermerville at 10:35 a. m., and he died at 11:25. His leg was broken and he was hurt internally. It was caused by Glen stepping around the end of a gravel train as it passed right in front of the train as it passed from Milwaukee to Chicago. The remains will be brought here Wednesday on 11:17 a. m. train and taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Joseph Tuttle. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but interment will be in the village cemetery here. The sympathy of the entire village goes out to his parents, brothers and sisters. Undertaker E. H. Tubbs went to Shermerville last evening to accompany the remains to Clinton.
